Eduardo Garduño	garduno@deforest.mx Suggested ranking: Category pending Eduardo Garduño is a partner in DeForest's Labour & Employment practice. He has led the labour integration following an automotive-sector acquisition, standardising employment agreements, collective bargaining agreements, internal regulations, mixed commissions and labour-governance policies across six Mexican states for a workforce exceeding 5,000 employees, while coordinating the alignment of 35 active labour proceedings with the post-acquisition governance model. He also leads collective bargaining and workforce-transformation mandates for industrial employers, including negotiations undertaken to address imminent strike risk and multi-facility restructuring. His work includes nationwide litigation and employment-governance mandates for large employers, combining active labour proceedings with advice on employment documentation, disciplinary procedures, workplace regulations and preventive labour strategy. Eduardo also leads union-representation responses involving litigation, collective bargaining strategy and negotiations with competing unions.	Y
Jaime Bustamante	bustamante@deforest.mx Suggested ranking: Category pending Jaime Bustamante advises employers on complex employment disputes, constitutional review, workplace investigations and preventive labour governance. He leads a legacy employment-litigation mandate combining proceedings with potential exposure approaching MXN 16 million, negotiations concerning adverse labour judgments and an amparo challenging the reasoning of one labour decision. He also leads internal-investigation work involving allegations against a senior executive, where the structured process prevented litigation valued at approximately MXN 750,000. His recent work includes labour-litigation portfolio management, audits, internal-control enhancement and employment-procedure harmonisation. In one ongoing mandate, three Ministry of Labor and IMSS inspections concluded without fines despite combined potential exposure approaching MXN 2 million. Before joining DeForest, Jaime served as Legal Director for Mexico, Central and South America at ManpowerGroup.	Y
Javier Atzin Vallejo	vallejo@deforest.mx Suggested ranking: Category pending Javier Atzin Vallejo focuses on labour, social security and regulatory-compliance mandates for industrial and infrastructure operations. He leads collective-labour matters involving union-representation proceedings, negotiation and litigation strategy, including a manufacturing-facility dispute in which the team prevented work stoppages and avoided escalation under the USMCA Rapid Response Labor Mechanism. Javier also leads project-lifecycle labour work for energy infrastructure, designing workforce documentation, project-specific employment structures, compliance	Y programmes, dispute-prevention measures and workforce demobilisation. His litigation work includes a constitutional amparo in which a Collegiate Court granted relief, ordered recognition of an attorney-in-fact's standing and restored the client's right to present its defence. He additionally leads employment, union-related and social-security governance work for an industrial employer with approximately 17,000 employees.

Raymundo Carreño	carreno@deforest.mx Raymundo Carreño brings nearly four decades of in-house legal experience at a confidential client, including service as General Legal Director. His background includes regulatory transitions, union negotiations and organisational restructurings in the automotive sector. He contributes senior industrial-relations perspective to DeForest's Labour & Employment practice.	Y
Edgar Barreto	dirgeneral@mrb.mx Edgar Barreto focuses on labour litigation, social security and internal governance for large-scale employers. His experience includes identifying contingencies, harmonising documentation in high-volume environments and advising industrial operations on IMSS processes, inspections and compliance mechanisms.
Andrés Cabrera Gómez	cabrera@deforest.mx Andrés Cabrera Gómez leads the firm's Labour & Employment practice in the Bajío region. His practice focuses on litigation strategy and regional implementation in jurisdictions adapting to Mexico's post-reform labour system, linking national employment frameworks with local execution for industrial clients.	Y
Erick Pérez	perezg@deforest.mx Erick Pérez is listed as a team member on DeForest matters involving nationwide labour litigation portfolios and union-representation disputes for industrial employers.

B10 What is this department best known for? Please include: industry sector expertise; key types of work; areas of recent growth. Address any feedback on our recent coverage of your department (500 word count limit)

DeForest's Labour & Employment practice advises employers whose workforce stability is central to operational continuity. The team combines labour advisory, litigation, collective labour relations, social security, compliance and workforce governance for domestic and multinational businesses operating across Mexico.

The practice is particularly active in labour-intensive and regulated sectors, including automotive manufacturing, infrastructure, energy, logistics, technology, retail and financial services. Its work spans collective bargaining, union-representation disputes, workforce integration following acquisitions, employer substitutions, regulatory inspections, social-security matters, employment documentation, internal investigations and litigation portfolios involving large workforces and multiple jurisdictions.

The practice advises employers whose combined workforces exceed one million employees throughout Mexico. Its Puebla team manages approximately 700 labour disputes, and, during the last twelve months, the team has assisted more than 20 clients in connection with labour inspections conducted by the Ministry of Labor.

The team's recent matters include a post-acquisition labour integration across six Mexican states for more than 5,000 employees; collective labour strategies that prevented work stoppages; nationwide litigation portfolios comprising approximately 200 active proceedings; and labour and social-security governance for industrial operations employing approximately 17,000 people. Eduardo Garduño is a partner in the Labour & Employment practice, with Javier Atzin Vallejo and Jaime Bustamante contributing experience in collective labour relations, litigation, compliance, social security and workforce governance.

C2 Feedback on our coverage of this practice area (Optional)

DeForest seeks first-time recognition for its Labour & Employment practice in Mexico. The team advises employers on matters where collective labour relations, workforce transformation, litigation exposure and regulatory compliance directly affect operational continuity.

Its representative work includes post-acquisition integration across six states for a workforce exceeding 5,000 employees; collective bargaining and union-representation matters in which the team prevented work stoppages; nationwide labour litigation portfolios involving approximately 200 active proceedings; and labour, union-related and social-security governance for an industrial workforce of approximately 17,000 employees. The practice also handles employer substitutions, REPSE-related restructuring, constitutional labour litigation, internal investigations and preventive inspection strategy.

The submission demonstrates a coherent employer-side practice combining contentious and non-contentious capability, with visible leadership from Eduardo Garduño, Javier Atzin Vallejo and Jaime Bustamante. DeForest respectfully requests consideration for appropriate coverage in Labour & Employment in Mexico.

SCHAEFFLER
E2 Summary of matter and your department's role – Please say why this matter was important. Also, tell us exactly what role your department played.
Following Schaeffler's global acquisition of Vitesco Technologies, DeForest was appointed to lead the post-acquisition labour integration in Mexico. The mandate involved harmonising employment structures while maintaining operational continuity across manufacturing facilities. DeForest designed and implemented the labour integration strategy across Puebla, Estado de México, Guanajuato, Jalisco, Morelos and Chihuahua. The work standardised employment agreements, collective bargaining agreements, internal regulations, mixed commissions and labour-governance policies for a workforce exceeding 5,000 employees. The firm also manages 35 active labour proceedings involving suppliers and former employees, aligning litigation strategy with the unified post-acquisition governance model. Eduardo Garduño led the mandate.

Brose México, S.A. de C.V.
E2 Summary of matter and your department's role – Please say why this matter was important. Also, tell us exactly what role your department played.
DeForest represents Brose México in a sensitive collective labour dispute concerning ownership of the collective bargaining agreement at a manufacturing facility in Querétaro. The proceedings arose in the context of Mexico's evolving collective labour relations framework and posed business-continuity risk for the client's operations. The firm designed and implemented the client's negotiation and litigation strategy in the union-representation proceedings. Through proactive dialogue and procedural management, the team prevented work stoppages and avoided escalation under the USMCA Rapid Response Labor Mechanism. Javier Atzin Vallejo leads the ongoing mandate.

E2 Summary of matter and your department's role – Please say why this matter was important. Also, tell us exactly what role your department played.
DeForest advises Bonatti on labour governance for energy-infrastructure projects, including the Energía Mayakan Pipeline Expansion, the Cuxtal II expansion, the Ojinaga-El Encino Gas Pipeline and operational support for energy projects in Tabasco. The Energía Mayakan Pipeline Expansion is an infrastructure project valued at more than USD 2,000,000,000, while the Cuxtal II expansion is an infrastructure project valued at USD 2,500,000,000. These project values are distinct from the approximate USD 252,000 labour-litigation value. The firm designed and implemented workforce documentation, project-specific employment structures, compliance programmes, dispute-prevention measures and workforce demobilisation. It managed more than 20 labour disputes arising during project execution, resolving the overwhelming majority through conciliation and reducing potential financial exposure by approximately 80%. The team also prevented an imminent strike threatening operations linked to strategic energy infrastructure. Javier Atzin Vallejo leads the mandate.

DeForest represents Nueva Empresa, S.C. in two wrongful-termination proceedings involving a procedural dispute over recognition of the company's attorney-in-fact. The labour court had refused to recognise the representation and issued an adverse ruling despite valid notarial documentation. The declared matter value is approximately USD 171,494.21; the financial exposure is separately approximately MXN 3 million. The firm brought constitutional amparo proceedings challenging the ruling. The Collegiate Court granted constitutional relief, ordered recognition of the attorney's legal standing and restored the client's right to present its defence. DeForest advises Mextypsa on labour governance for infrastructure projects, including the Guadalajara Metro Line 4 Project and litigation arising from the Coahuila Wind Farm Project. The mandate combines project-based workforce structuring, compliance, workforce administration and dispute resolution. The Guadalajara Metro Line 4 Project is a USD 552 million infrastructure development. The firm designed its contractual and compliance architecture and supervised workforce demobilisation. In separate Coahuila Wind Farm litigation, an adverse labour judgment threatened liabilities exceeding MXN 5.5 million; DeForest challenged it through constitutional proceedings, restoring procedural rights and reopening the litigation. DeForest currently manages more than 20 labour disputes with aggregate exposure of approximately MXN 21.5 million. Empresa Tekia
E2 Summary of matter and your department's role – Please say why this matter was important. Also, tell us exactly what role your department played.
DeForest represents Empresa Tekia in complex legacy labour litigation involving potential exposure approaching MXN 16 million. The mandate also includes negotiations relating to two adverse labour judgments valued at approximately MXN 6.5 million. The firm designed a coordinated litigation strategy and leads a constitutional amparo challenging the legal reasoning underpinning one labour decision. It integrates procedural strategy with commercial settlement discussions to contain overall financial risk. Jaime Bustamante leads the ongoing matter.
